

Turkey: To keep the turkey from getting away just before Thanksgiving, we'll anchor it to a rod. Anchor rod (Ankara [ang-ker-uh])

Georgia: The fashion hat is also a bullet proof hat so that when the turkey is always ready to police the sea and make sure that other turkeys don't eat any butterflies. To police sea (T'bilisi [tuh-buh-lee-see])

Armenia: Seeing that calling the turkey mean is not working, Jon the butterfly tries another tactic and asks, "Isn't your name Yvonne? You're Yvonne!" Yerevan [yer-uh-vahn]

Azerbaijan: Oh no! Now in desperation Jon the butterfly asks, but who will take care of my babies? But who. Baku [buh-koo]

Saudi Arabia: Saudi is a very rich man so he owns a real yacht that he likes to use to go sailing. Real yacht (Riyadh[ree-yahd])

Syria: The cap is definitely helpful with the searing heat, but I guess the mask is too. The mask is (Damascus [dhu-mas-kuhs])

Jordan (j'ordinary): It's just ordinary to be the side of a cap. It's just ordinary, j'ordinary to be just another piece of fabric among so many other pieces that make up the cap. Among (Amman [ah-mahn])

Lebanon (let the button on): I wonder what would happen if I let the button on the cap fall into the bay. Will it grow roots? Bay root (Beirut [bey-root])

Israel: Yes it is real that Jay the kangaroo is just a lump on the back of the man's baseball cap. Jay Roo is a lump (Jerusalem [ji-roo-suh-luhm])

Iraq: Dad is so embarrassed about his son's lack of guitar playing skill and racking his bangs so much that dad decided to put a bag over his head. Bag dad (Baghdad [bag-dad])

Kuwait: Could the city wait to see whether the mole on the man's nose will grow bigger? Could wait city (Kuwait City)

Bahrain: The boy likes to sing with a bottle in the rain, "mana-mana, mana-mana!" "You must stop singing!" His mom yells. "Mana-mana", "Must stop!", "mana-mana", "must stop!" (Manama [ma-na-muh])

Qatar: The man is tired of sticking out his tongue just to learn to play the guitar. He wants to lick some cookie dough to make him laugh. Some cookie dough would make him go ha ha. Dough ha (Doha [doh-hah])

UAE (unite the Arab M merit): Abu da bee is trying to figure out if the united Arab masters merit the award for top beard. But with political correctness we shouldn't say masters. We'll just say United Arab M merit. Abu da bee (Abu Dhabi [ah-boo dah-bee])

Oman [oh-mahn]: The old man must cut the tip of his dark beard from time to time so his wife can enjoy seeing his light colored beard. Must cut (Muscat [muhs-khut])

Yemen [yem-uhn]: The man is going on a date with Sasha and decided to knot his tie in her favorite fashion. He calls it the Sasha knot. Sasha knot (Sanaa [sah-nah])

Pakistan: Stan looks like a homeless duck because of all the things that he packs with him everywhere that one day as he was walking his pet lama he was stopped by the police and asked, "Is the lama bought or stolen?" Is Lama bought (Islamabad [is-lah-muh-bahd])

Afghanistan: Even with the afghan, Stan still gets cold so he likes to join the carpool where there's more body heat in the car to keep warm and they can all share the afghan. But since it's hard for a duck to say their r's Stan says ca-pool. (Kabul [kah-bool])

Kazakhstan: Since Cousin Zak is at the top of the Stan family, he gets really tan in the summer. He is as tan as he can be. As tan as (Astana [as-ta-na])

Kyrgyzstan (Kirk is the newest guy in the Stan family so he's little): When little Kirk was born, his mother was so happy to the answers to her prayers that she baked the bishop a cake. Bishop cake (Bishkek [bish-kek])

Tajikistan: Whoosh, fire on the butt of that arrow! Whoosh on butt (Dushanbe [doo-shahn-buh])

Uzbekistan: There was a sign in front of the ozzie that said "You Can't Touch This!" But poor Cousin Zak sometimes gets his words backwards so he says, "Touch can't" (Tashkent [tahsh-kent])

Turkmenistan: Oh will Turk the menace ever be good? The family was supposed to have shish kabobs for lunch, but Turk the menace shot flaming arrows at them so up they all burnt up in one big ball of fire. Now all that's left is an ash kabob. (Ashgabat [ash-guh-bad])

Iran: I run to run. I ran to ran. (Tehran [te-ran])

India: Our dancer was invited to perform a sandwich dance at the grand opening for the New Deli.(New Delhi [del-ee])

Nepal: Not only is our dancer able to nip all her tosses, she also caught the huge manly fondue pot before it spilled all over the floor. Instead of saying manly fondue pot, we'll just call the pot a man-due pot. Caught man-due. (Kathmandu [kaht-mahn-doo])

Bhutan: Our dancer was trying to be Dorothy in Wizard of Oz, except as she was twirling, her baton accidentally knocked the tin man into the pool. Ops, I guess she won't get the part. Tin pool (Thimphu [tim-poo])

Sri Lanka: Was that bag of candies dropped purposely to murder our dancer? It's a job for Detective Colombo. (Colombo [kuh-luhm-boh])... hum, don't know Detective Colombo? When our dancer fell, she scraped up the floor. She must call the lumber yard to order more lumber. Call lumber

Bangladesh: Not only does the baton bang on the desk, it scatters a whole deck of cards. Deck of (Dhaka [dak-uh])

